Senior Building Surveyor

Description

Senior Building Surveyor | Development Management Consultancy | London

£80,000 plus travel, health & profit share

An opportunity to work for a multidisciplinary Management Consultancy who are looking to expand their Building Surveying operations in the London.

It's likely you will be a qualified (MRICS) Building Surveyor having worked for either a building surveying practice or construction consultancy. Previous experience of various mixed-use schemes, both commercial and residential working closely with local authorities and planning bodies would be a distinct advantage. In addition, the ability to identify potential work streams and increase their portfolio in allied sectors.

This is a permanent role, working from our clients well-appointed offices in central London. This role could offer you the chance to develop a team around you, managing and mentoring junior surveyors throughout the APC process.

Candidates must already be living within a daily commute of London and be MRICS qualified Building Surveyors or on the process of attaining. Project delivery experience gained on major building projects in excess of £10million in the UK is essential and the ability to manage large survey programmes.
