Senior Project Manager Construction

Description

Senior Project Manager | Project Director Designate | Construction Cladding London

Up to £85,000 + health, pension and bonus incentive

Our client is a highly successful specialist contractor operating throughout London on new build commercial and residential projects. They supply and fit some of the finest internal and external finishings, to include statement cladding, Sto render and natural stone, working with leading Architects and Contractors alike.

Due to an increased demand for their highly innovative product range, a new appointment for a Contracts Manager has been created within their management team.

This position demands a building professional, with a strong commercial awareness, combined with a first-class background in the effective management of projects multiple contracts simultaneously, with package values typically £2.5million and £5million.

Experience of stonework would be an advantage, however a solid track record of interiors/fit out would equally be of interest. You must demonstrate the ability to work independently within a close-knit team in order to make a valuable contribution to the ongoing success of the business. Good computer skills are essential including knowledge of Windows based packages, mainly Outlook, Excel and Word.
